About ESF

The State University of New York College of Environmental Science and Forestry offers a diverse range of accredited programs and degree options in chemistry, construction management and wood products engineering, environmental and forest biology, environmental resources and forest engineering, environmental science, environmental studies, forest and natural resources management, forest technology, landscape architecture, and paper science and engineering.

ESF takes affirmative action to provide equal opportunity for all people and to build a campus community that reflects a wealth of diversity.

Vision

A better world through environmental discovery.

Mission

The mission of the College of Environmental Science and Forestry is to advance knowledge and skills and to promote the leadership necessary for the stewardship of both the natural and designed environments.

Kimberly-Clark Worldwide Donates 13 Patents to ESF for Research in New Paper Products

State University of New York Chancellor Robert L. King announced February 27 that Kimberly-Clark Worldwide donated 13 U.S. patents to help ESF develop promising innovative technologies for new and improved paper-based products.

“Kimberly-Clark made this gift with the goal that the research faculty at ESF will further advance the donated technologies so they may be incorporated into commercially viable products and processes,” King said.

The donation of 13 patents could potentially be worth millions of dollars to ESF and result in the development of improved consumer products.

The final value of the patents will ultimately depend on the results of the research and the market demand at the time those results are ready to be put into practice by industry. In the meantime, the patents will serve as incubators for new ideas and a training ground for the next generation of scientists.

Dr. D. Steven Keller, an ESF associate professor of Paper Science and Engineering, will lead the ESF research team. Keller’s expertise is in the area of paper structure and surface chemistry.

Some of the research on this project will be performed by Dr. Paul Caluwe of ESF’s Faculty of Chemistry. Caluwe will investigate new compounds to enhance paper’s properties and the mechanisms that make the compounds work.

The team will focus on two areas: using more environmentally friendly compounds to enhance certain properties, such as strength and appearance in paper products; and developing innovative approaches and enzyme treatments of new and recycled fibers to enhance the quality of paper products.

The patents provide key technical information about various treatments and the ESF team will look for ways to improve on those ideas and to apply those processes.

The project’s goal is to increase the use of efficient, biobased processes that use renewable resources, and to reduce the amount of energy consumed. The research eventually could be applied to developing new packaging materials or improving the grades of paper we use every day.

Funding from Kimberly-Clark will provide the project with the assistance of two graduate students for two years.

Pataki Puts ESF at ‘Forefront’ of Emerging Technology

Governor George Pataki said SUNY-ESF, through the Syracuse Center of Excellence, will help position New York state at the forefront of an emerging worldwide market for clean energy technologies.

Pataki, in his annual State of the State address January 7, said the college will contribute to a strong biofuel industry through its role in the expanded Syracuse Center of Excellence in Environmental Systems, which is now broadened to include research and development in renewable and clean energy sources.

“The center’s expanded mission will improve the regional economy and quality of life for all Central New Yorkers,” said ESF President Cornelius B. Murphy, Jr. “The governor’s announcement is in harmony with the Metropolitan Development Authority (MDA) of Syracuse and Central New York’s Vision 2010 Economic Development Strategy, which is clearly taking shape and is beginning to impact the quality of life in Central New York.”

Pataki’s expansion of the Syracuse center to include renewable energy builds on ESF’s experience and reputation in the field. In March 2002, SUNY Chancellor Robert L. King named ESF as the site for the SUNY Center for Sustainable and Renewable Energy. In that capacity, ESF serves as SUNY’s systemwide voice and research clearinghouse for new developments in biofuels and other alternative and innovative energy-producing methods.

Meyer Named Chair of Construction Management and Wood Products Engineering

Dr. Robert W. Meyer was appointed chair of the Faculty of Construction Management and Wood Products Engineering.

Meyer succeeds Dr. George H. Kyanka, who continues his responsibilities in teaching and research at ESF.

Meyer directs ESF’s Tropical Timber Information Center. His research specialties include wood anatomy and ultrastructure, tropical woods, wood structure and utilization, and wood permeability.

Meyer earned his bachelor of science in forestry and master of forestry degrees from the University of Washington. He earned his doctorate from ESF.

Meyer joined the college faculty in 1979 following positions at Washington State University and Canada’s Western Forest Products Laboratory.

Robert W. Meyer

Palmer Named ASLA Fellow

ESF Associate Professor James F. Palmer was named a Fellow of the American Society of Landscape Architecture (ASLA).

Palmer, a specialist in quantitative social sciences and natural resource planning, was nominated by the Vermont ASLA Chapter for his contributions to the field of landscape architecture. He has taught for 22 years in the Faculty of Landscape Architecture.

Palmer's work concentrates on environment and behavior, applying scientific processes to measure a landscape's aesthetic appeal. He has examined the shared cultural ideas of what constitutes beauty in a landscape.

Palmer received his bachelor's degree in both politics and environmental studies from the University of California Santa Cruz. He earned his Master of Landscape Architecture and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Massachusetts Amherst.

Endreny Receives Chancellor's Award for Internationalization

Dr. Theodore A. Endreny, an assistant professor of engineering hydrology and watershed management, was awarded the SUNY Chancellor's Award for Internationalization.

Endreny received the award for the program "Ecological Engineering in the Tropics" to occur in La Ceiba, Honduras.

SUNY Chancellor Robert L. King announced the first-ever Chancellor's Award for Internationalization as a way to enable more students and faculty to have an international learning experience. The $8,000 award will fund short-term study abroad projects for students led by SUNY faculty to less-traveled countries around the world.

Ecological Engineering in the Tropics is a three-week course scheduled for May 2004. It will focus on Honduras' Caribbean coast. Participants will have the opportunity for in-depth field exposure, lectures and time to explore the urban and natural environments of Honduras.

Theodore A. Endreny

Raydora Drummer Named Director of Multicultural Affairs

Dr. Raydora S. Drummer was named ESF's director of multicultural affairs effective January 26.

Drummer will develop and implement programs to enhance diversity on campus and support the needs of ESF's student body.

Prior to joining ESF, Drummer served as assistant dean of student life and director of multicultural services at the University of Dubuque, Iowa. She also was

Raydora S. Drummer

Dubuque's interim dean of student life and assistant dean of students. Drummer also held positions in residence life and student services at Michigan State University and Wheaton College. She has taught courses at both institutions in sociology, human relations, and diversity topics.

She participated in numerous civic organizations in the Dubuque area including serving as a commissioner on the city's Human Rights Commission, as vice chair of Dubuque's Community Advisory Panel, and as vice president of the local NAACP chapter.

Drummer earned her bachelor's degree in communications from Albertus Magnus College in New Haven, Conn., and her master's in educational ministries from Wheaton College. She earned her doctorate in college and university administration from Michigan State in 1995.

Diane O'Connor Joins ESF Development Office

Diane O'Connor was appointed major gifts coordinator and assistant director of development February 9.

O'Connor most recently served as executive director of alumni affairs and associate director of external affairs for the Kenan-Flagler Business School at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

She has more than 20 years of professional experience in development, communications and constituent relations including service as director of communications and development for the Association for the Preservation of Civil War Sites in Fredericksburg, Va.

At ESF, O'Connor will support all major gift efforts as well as oversee fundraising programs for a variety of units and programs across campus.

Diane O'Connor

Partnership Leads to $1.2 Million Grant for High-Tech Worker Training

A partnership between SUNY-ESF and the Manufacturers Association of Central New York (MACNY) has garnered $1.2 million in funding to develop and operate programs to train high-tech workers.

MACNY, ESF and the New York Indoor Environmental Quality Center will use the funds to conduct four programs developed with local businesses that will lead to professional certification in biotechnology, engineering design tools, renewable energy design and construction, and indoor environmental quality.

The funding was awarded through a competitive grant program of the U.S. Department of Labor. The certificate programs will educate 60 incumbent workers and 60 unemployed workers from Central New York.

"These technologies are the next generation of manufacturing products and services," said Randy Wolken, MACNY president. "Central New York needs a workforce with the highest level of education in these areas to remain a world leader. I applaud Labor Secretary Elaine Chao and Congressman James Walsh for recognizing this need and helping to secure the funds."

Honor Roll of Donors 2002-2003

ESF's honor roll of donors acknowledges all individuals and corporations who supported the college with a financial contribution during the period July 1, 2002, through June 30, 2003.

The honor roll recognizes contributions made to the ESF College Foundation, the Syracuse Pulp and Paper Foundation, the ESF Alumni Association and the Ranger School Alumni Association.

Contributors are listed in alphabetical order within various donor categories. These categories are: alumni, corporations, faculty and staff, foundations, friends, organizations, parents, and trustees and directors. Alumni additionally are listed by class year.

Within these broad groups, donors are further classified by giving level. These giving levels are:

Founder's Club	lifetime gifts of $25,000 or more
President's Club	gifts of $1,000 or more
Leader	gifts of $500 to $999
Pacesetter	gifts of $250 to $499
Centurion	gifts of $100 to $249
Pioneer	gifts of up to $99
Robin Hood Oak	members have made a planned gift or provision for ESF in their estate plans

Employer matching gifts are not included in the total of an individual's gift. Employers are listed separately along with other corporate donors.

Individual gift totals are cumulative for the year if more than one gift was made, regardless of the purpose of the gift. For example, an alumnus who made a gift of $250 to the Annual Fund and another gift of $250 to the Syracuse Pulp and Paper Foundation would be listed once in the "Leader" category.

Alumni Association annual dues are not included in this honor roll. Dues are not considered by the Internal Revenue Service to be tax deductible, in contrast to gifts to the Annual Fund or other charitable programs.

We have made every effort to ensure this list is comprehensive and accurate. Any errors of omission or fact should be reported in writing or by telephone at 315-470-6683.

Harden Furniture, Inc. and ESF: A Perfect Match

As the only furniture manufacturer in the United States that owns its own timberlands and sawmill, Harden Furniture, Inc. has a vested interest in both wood products engineering and forest management.

Its comprehensive approach to furniture making explains the company's desire to outfit the wood moisture lab in ESF's newly renovated Hugh P. Baker Laboratory. The lab tests the effects moisture has on the properties of wood. Depending on moisture gain or loss, wood can shrink or swell. Uncontrolled, this can cause defects in the furniture.

"We've always had a great relationship with ESF and wanted to help make Baker Lab a state-of-the-art facility," said Gregory Harden, president and CEO.

The Harden/ESF relationship extends beyond Baker Laboratory. Members of the Faculty of Forest and Natural Resources Management helped the company prepare for its Sustainable Forestry Initiative certification (SFI) that shows Harden Furniture is committed to the responsible management and use of forest resources. Furthering the relationship between the college and company, Harden serves on ESF's Board of Trustees.

"It's a perfect match for a furniture company to outfit our wood moisture lab," Dr. Robert Meyer, chair of the Faculty of Construction Management and Wood Products and Engineering, said of the Baker Lab gift. "It provides our students with hands-on learning experience which will aid them in their future careers — perhaps even with Harden Furniture."

ESF's Mollet Club

To further its service-learning initiative, ESF sought outside funding to expand and improve the program.

The college applied for and received grants from the Central New York Community Foundation and The Rosamond Gifford Foundation to further develop the curriculum, which links academic study with community service.

The $13,500 Community Foundation grant is being used to increase the opportunities for service-learning and enhance the existing programs. In 2002-2003, ESF provided more than 40,000 hours of community service through service learning. "One of the goals of the Community Foundation is to promote collaborations among various organizations to accomplish common objectives," said Kim Scott, vice president of programs for the Community Foundation. "ESF's service-learning initiative presents an ideal format to link academia with the community, strengthen those town-gown ties, and in the process improve the community."

An example of this relationship is students in the Urban Design Studio who are developing a master plan for the downtown Syracuse business district. The landscape architecture students are working with city officials, business leaders, non-profit agencies and other interested parties to formulate this important part of the city's comprehensive plan.

The $20,000 grant received from The Gifford Foundation will provide staff support for the expansion of the service-learning curriculum. The position will serve as a liaison between the college and community helping to identify community needs and matching them with ESF curricula.

"We have a number of designated service-learning courses. Our desire is to increase the number of courses resulting in a service-learning curriculum," said Dr. Julie R. White, associate dean of student life and experiential learning. "We are changing the approach so that ESF is more proactive and responsive to community-identified needs."

The college also established a Service-Learning Advisory Council consisting of community members, students, and faculty to keep abreast of community needs and possible interfaces with ESF's curricular objectives.

Vivian Sutton: Supporter of Women and the Environment

Vivian Sutton had a love for the environment and a profound sense of the importance of education for women. She combined those interests during her years on the faculty at ESF, where she taught English and writing classes during the 1960s and 1970s.

Several years after her death, her family has found a way to honor Dr. Sutton's memory and her interests through a gift to the college.

Her husband, Walter Sutton, gave the college a significant gift in her memory that will provide scholarships to female students during their sophomore and junior years. The scholarships are earmarked for students majoring in landscape architecture or environmental studies.

"She was in sympathy with the environmental aspect of the college and very much enjoyed the landscape architecture department as well," said the Suttons' daughter, Catherine Sutton Penner.

Dr. Sutton earned her bachelor's degree from Oberlin College and her master's and doctorate from Bryn Mawr College. She joined the ESF faculty in 1962. Walter Sutton taught American literature in the English department at Syracuse University. The couple's daughter also earned a doctorate in the same field and teaches in the writing department at Ithaca College.

Vivian Sutton indulged her interest in the environment by visiting national parks and she was an avid birdwatcher.

"She was an independent, spirited woman," Dr. Penner said of her mother. "And she greatly admired the spirit of the college."

Edna and Ed Littlehales flank President Murphy

Ed and Edna Littlehales wanted to give something back to the people who had helped them get a start years ago.

Ed Littlehales considers himself a member of the college's Class of '42, although he actually received his degree in 1948.

"I entered in '38 and left in my junior year, mostly for the lack of funds," he said. "I was drafted for World War II, then commissioned, and after four years returned to the college to graduate with the help of the GI Bill."

Ed and Edna Littlehales: A Win-Win Move

Ed Littlehales went on to have a varied career that included work in forest economics research, projects for the Central Intelligence Agency, public relations for the U.S. Forest Service, and freelance jobs as an outdoor writer and photographer.

"The broad education and work ethic I learned at the college served me well," he said.

Ed Littlehales said his wife had a "rocky childhood" but was helped by an older couple who cared for her and provided an education for her and several other young people.

"We wanted to give something back to the people who had given so much to us, early on," Ed Littlehales said. "And of course, they're long gone now and we can't do that. So we decided to do something for future generations of students at ESF."

For the Littlehales, a gift to the College's Charitable Annuity Fund was the answer to the question of how to best support the college.

"We first made provisions in our wills for scholarship money for the college. But, while investigating ways to increase our current income, we discovered the ESF annuity plan to be a perfect answer for us instead of the will route," Littlehales said. "The annuity gift will eventually pass to the college to fund scholarships. The 8.8 percent income guaranteed to my wife during her lifetime meets two goals — security for her and a return to others for the help we had received. It's a win-win move."

Kappa Phi Delta: Investing in Students

The leadership of the Kappa Phi Delta Alumni Association faced a difficult task recently: the sale of the Walnut Park house that had served as a home to the fraternity.

KPD, which was associated with ESF for more than 50 years, disbanded a few years ago. The brothers sold the house back to Syracuse University, which had owned it previously. Then they had to decide what to do with the $113,000 in proceeds from the sale. The fraternity's bylaws stated the money would go to the college, but the alumni had the right to choose exactly how to make the donation.

"We wanted to perpetuate the name of Kappa Phi Delta. We wanted to leave our mark on the college," said Ted Otteni '93, who lived in the house when he was a student in the Faculty of Environmental Resources and Forest Engineering. "We could have supported a renovation project, but buying a room and putting a plaque on a wall with KPD on it wasn't what we wanted. We wanted to invest in the students."

Otteni and his fraternity brothers eventually decided to establish a scholarship to help undergraduates with financial need. The scholarship is earmarked for students who "mirror the spirit of KPD" by being well-rounded individuals with good academic records and a history of extracurricular activities and work experience.

Otteni, now a highway engineer with Clough Harbor Associates, said his fraternity days allowed him to establish relationships with older alumni who helped him in his job search. Later, he returned to the KPD house as a mentor to younger students.

"There was a brotherhood we all felt because we all felt a devotion to the fraternity," he said. "And we all had the same devotion to ESF."

Dick and Pat Gustafson: A Great Birthday Present

George F. Earle, a beloved professor emeritus of landscape architecture, inspired his students.

So when the call went out for alumni to help honor Earle, they responded beyond everyone's dreams.

Dick Gustafson '60 and wife, Pat, wanted to do something memorable to mark Earle's 90th birthday in 2003. The Gustafsons provided the seed money to establish a scholarship. Then they issued a challenge to Earle's former colleagues and students to match their initial donation. So many contributions were received that the scholarship now totals more than $50,000, far exceeding expectations.

The George F. Earle Scholarship for Off-Campus Study will be awarded to the senior LA student with the highest cumulative GPA in four years of design studio and will provide assistance during the student's semester off-campus.

Earle was a popular professor on campus from 1965 to 1983 and helped create the off-campus study program in 1970. During the fall semester of their fifth year, students study a topic of individual interest in a location outside the classroom providing the students with direct experience with different environments and cultures. Since its inception, more than 1,000 students have participated in the program living in over 50 countries including the United States.

"I'm very satisfied with how the program has grown," Earle said, noting the true advantage of the program is when students return to the States and look at their own country and culture. "They come back with new eyes."

Also satisfied are the Gustafsons with the response to the challenge. "Pat and I made a snowball and the people at ESF made a darn good snowman out of it," said Dick Gustafson.

Betsy and Jesse Fink

Jesse Fink's interest in the environment took him to work in the mountains of the Northwest when he was a high school student. His next step was ESF, where he earned a bachelor's degree in forest resources management. Then he went into the business world.

Now, 30 years after that experience in the Cascade Mountains, Fink looks for ways to combine his passion for conservation with his interest in the nation's economic engines.

Betsy and Jesse Fink: New Concepts in Conservation

Toward that end, he found a program to support at his alma mater.

Fink and his wife, Betsy Mitchell-Fink, have made a $30,000 gift to ESF's entrepreneurship program through their Betsy and Jesse Fink Foundation. Both Finks graduated from ESF in 1979, he with a degree in forest resources management and she with a degree in environmental and forest biology.

Jesse Fink eventually became a co-founder of Priceline.com and Betsy Mitchell-Fink served as a key employee. They left the company in 1999 and have since pursued different interests, including investing in companies with ties to the environment and conservation. They also support a number of not-for-profit organizations, notably the Student Conservation Association, which acts as a type of employment agency for students in environmental fields.

Their gift to ESF will support efforts to identify new concepts that have the potential to become business ventures based on the scientific, engineering and design activities already flourishing on campus. For more than two years, ESF has worked to foster entrepreneurship, adding a minor in the subject and sponsoring an Entrepreneurship Opportunity Contest to help people bring their ideas to fruition.

"I've always had an interest in business and an interest in environmental studies," Jesse Fink said. "I'm trying to figure out how to inspire other people to be entrepreneurial, but in the direction of the environment and conservation. If there's a way to make it more economical to recycle or buy a hybrid car or use an alternative mode of transportation, then I'd like to see that happen."

Carl Hoffman and Dr. Elizabeth Naumburg

"When you're fortunate to have more than enough," Dr. Elizabeth Naumburg said, "it should be part of your practice to share it with other people."

That commitment to sharing, in addition to a desire to be good neighbors, led Naumburg and her husband, Carl Hoffman, to make a donation to ESF's Ranger School in Wanakena. The gift will name the library at the recently rehabilitated facility.

Carl Hoffman and Elizabeth Naumburg; Good Neighbors

The couple's second home borders on the Ranger School's 2,800-acre property in the northwest corner of the Adirondack Park. Naumburg and Hoffman are aware of the close relationship between the school and the small, close-knit hamlet of Wanakena.

"The Ranger School, particularly under the leadership of (Director) Chris Westbrook has built beneficial relationships with people in Wanakena and the surrounding area," Naumburg said. "Chris is very community-spirited."

Naumburg and Hoffman see their year-round home in Wanakena as a "sanctuary" that they retreat to from their busy lives in Rochester, where Naumburg is an associate dean and professor of family medicine at the University of Rochester School of Medicine and Dentistry. Hoffman is a homemaker and writer.

In Wanakena, they enjoy exploring the nearby wilderness, canoeing the many waterways and skiing on the trails that crisscross the Ranger School's Dubuar Memorial Forest.

"The park is very important to me. The first time I visited, I was two months old," Naumburg said. "When we looked for a home, we chose the northwest part of the park because it's close to a large tract of wilderness and it retains a wonderful charm."

The Ranger School contributes to that charm, she said.

"The well-being of the Ranger School and the well-being of our lovely little sanctuary up there are integrally meshed together."
